Last January my office decided to align with the Greater Boston Food Bank (GBFB). One day I visited their facility and I was swiftly educated on just how bad food scarcity actually is, and the truly great work the GBFB does to combat this serious problem.

Our team recently took a Friday off to volunteer at the GBFB.

They are a well-oiled machine that focuses on distributing healthy food to those who need it in eastern Massachusetts.

During my visit I made a financial donation, and toured their facility. But I wanted to do more than just write a check.

Our team recently took a Friday off to volunteer at the GBFB. We were tasked with assembling cardboard boxes. Then, we were assigned a specific position on an assembly line where we, along with other volunteers, worked together to pack the cardboard boxes we had assembled with various foods.

That resulted in 8 full pallets of healthy, ready-to-be shipped food for those who need it. We were proud of our efforts, and we will soon be returning to the GBFB to provide more help to them.

For our team, the day was a win/win. Not only did we get a chance to get out of the office and further bond as a team, but we also rolled up our sleeves and helped out in the community. Afterwards, we went to a local restaurant where we enjoyed a great meal, and great conversation. Sadly though, going to a restaurant is a complete luxury many are not able to afford.

If you want to help them out at the GBFB, they are always looking for volunteers. I guarantee that if you volunteer there, that you will have an amazing and truly satisfying experience. Plus, I challenge you to beat our number of 288! ■

Alice & Ollie

KIDS' KONCOCTION ~~RORY'S RECIPES:~~

Grilled Cheese Sandwich

Hey! It's Ollie & Alice again! It's a new year so we wanted to share another gem of a recipe to get you through these tough times of quarantine. Like all of our culinary creations, it can be a weeknight dinner for one or used for an elegant dinner party. Bon Appetit!

INGREDIENTS:

- White bread (NEVER whole wheat or other healthy stuff)
- American cheese from the deli
- Butterlots of real butter
- Ketchup

DIRECTIONS:

- 1 OK, so first you take your bread and spread a lot of butter on both sides of the bread, then add about 12-15 slices of good American cheese to the sandwich. Then while your mom handles the heavy lifting of cooking the sandwich on the stove, you go play Xbox or Barbies for approximately 10 minutes.
- 2 Our preference is to garnish the sandwich with a giant heap of tater tots and a mountain of ketchup for dipping (obviously).

- » Do I Need A Lawyer To Create My Estate Plan?

Congratulations to our Halloween Giveaway Winner!

Congratulations to Gladys Lopera for winning first place in our Halloween giveaway! She won a Chromebook. Way to go, Gladys!

No one ever wants to think about doing an estate plan, but smart and proper estate planning is crucial. My colleague Michael Monteforte, Esq. is an estate planning attorney, and he was kind enough to share with us the following:

Do I Need A Lawyer To Create My Estate Plan?

To do it right, yes. I can't tell you how many times I've reviewed documents from websites or canned software, and they end up having to be completely scrapped and re-done. The reality is that you get what you pay for in estate planning, and custom documents from a legal professional are the key to ensuring a secure future, even though this expertise costs more.

Standard do-it-yourself wills, trusts, and other online estate planning tools may help you create simple documents, but this is not the same as constructing an actual plan. Here are 3 ways an estate planning attorney can help you:

1 Makes sure your estate plan is comprehensive. An attorney can ask important questions, outline strategies, and review all potential options, so you make informed decisions about your estate plan.

2 Provides you with peace of mind.

In the event that something in your plan is contested, there's a chance it will later be challenged in court. This can create a lot of stress and financial burden for your family after you are gone. Effective legal guidance can reduce this possibility.

3 It is cost effective. An estate planning lawyer may initially cost more upfront than a do-it-yourself program. However, by avoiding mistakes and maximizing tax advantages, savvy legal counsel is less costly in the long run.

An estate planning specialist can protect your future. You can't predict everything that will happen in your life, and you can't anticipate changes to Massachusetts law that would impact your estate plan. However, when you hire an estate planning attorney to devise a sound strategy, you are hiring an attorney for life. I will notify you of important legal changes that could impact your estate plan and help amend objectives as your financial needs and assets evolve.

Creating a comprehensive estate plan is an important step in protecting your family's financial security. Therefore, it is important to have comprehensive information to make the best decision for your future. To learn more about how my legal team can help you, contact us today to get started.
